WILDFLOWER BREWING & BLENDING

Wildflower is a small but prestigious brewery in our city's Inner West founded by two families. Primarily focusing on fermenting with a diverse culture of brewer's yeast known as mixed fermentation, they source foraged yeast from across NSW in addition to their house culture.

Experimenting and learning on a daily basis from their commitment to altered fermentation, the beer-making process is unique in order to allow these wild yeasts express themselves in their natural and positive way highlighting complexity in flavour.

Each year at harvest the team works with a selection of vineyards and orchards across NSW to preserve the flavours of various fruits by macerating whole with barrel aged ale. These beers are a celebration of the producer, bearing a unique microflora fingerprint.

Their brews will change your perspective of what a beer is, sharing a vinous texture with cider-like acidity, great length and subtlety.

We are extremely proud to offer a selection of their brews both by the glass and bottle.

WHISK(E)Y

Whisk(e)y as a category points to spirits produced from grains of various types, including barley, wheat, corn and rye, distilled two or three times and generally aged in oak barrels. Produced globally, the type of grains used and the barrels differ from country to country, resulting in various styles and flavours.

In recent years Australian whiskies have come to prominence lead by distilleries such as Sullivans Cove and Lark, with multiple international awards being gained by producers across our country.
